Making North Indian Youth Globally Employable

Skill Development applies at every level of the industry from business leadership and management to key skills in marketing, customer relations management, developing new ideas, e-business and human resource development.

A survey conducted by the CII predicted 5 million jobs in Punjab by 2015, which number could go up to 7-8 million if the Punjab industry achieves a national growth level of 8-10 percent from its 4-5 percent growth rate. According to the survey, around 2 million skilled youth would be required in the primary sector, while 3 million would be required in the secondary and tertiary sectors. Jobs in India, particularly in Punjab would be available in large numbers in sectors in telecom, insurance, banking, textile, healthcare, tourism, agro-based, diary farming, besides construction etc. The task, therefore, before the government is to raise the standard of higher, technical and professional education with Skills Development & Vocational Studies to enable the youth to compete globally.

There are more than 70 lakh NRIs of Punjabi origin constituting more than 33% of the total NRI population. Their relationship with their motherland is more than monetary who want to be partners in the development of India. The Indian Diaspora, particularly of Punjabi origin, with their rich resources, knowledge and entrepreneurial acumen can play a significant role in making investment in projects relating to training and skill development of the youth of the Region. There are enormous opportunities for NRIs to get actively involved as well support various educational and social service activities.

In this conference we are focusing on CANADA : Destination for Employment / Education. As Per the Study of Dr Rick Miner, Canada will continue to grow, much of that growth will consist of people over 65 years of age. What this means is that there will be fewer and fewer people in the labour force. Hence Canada needs two-fold task ahead. They need to increase their labour force and they need to increase the proportion of the labour force with Skills & Vocational training. As the youth from Northern India are keen to go overseas, well trained and Skilled manpower from this region moving out legally can contribute tremendously for both the economies; i.e India & Canada
